Key: E Grow into a Song Pyramid, Kodiak, Alaska

(c) 1982 Tupelo Kenyon 1977

(P) 1982 Arctic Wingsong Publishing BMI

(Played with E, B, and E strings open - chords are on A, D, and G strings)

Intro: A Abm Gbm E E octave

E A Abm A
Every time that I see your face, hear your voice and I count the ways
Abm Gbm E E octave
How much I miss your harmony
E A Abm A
Every time that you come around, it feels so good when I hear the sound
Abm Gbm E E octave
Sweet subtle counter melody
Abm A Abm D
But you can find me beside this river, just ‘a hopin’ you can come along
Db D Gbm Abm E octave D Db B
To add your touch to the empty spots, until the melody can grow into a song
Gbm Abm A Abm Gbm E E octave
You know I knew that it could all along

Every time that we have the chance, it never happens cause of circumstance
Yeah, it's so hard to find the time
"Just so busy" is an old cliche, for "Gee I'd really like to go, but not today"
You see I'm running way behind
And I'll be running down this river, just as fast as I can lope along
And if you'd add your touch, it would help so much for the melody to grow into a song
You know we knew that it could all along
